FORT MADISON - Outfitted in a beautiful blue gown and an eggshell-colored cowboy hat, the newest member of the 2017 Rodeo Court wasn’t quite finished getting dressed.

So her uncle, and long time rodeo pageant supporter, Bob Britton, came up and adored 12-year-old Kami Eaves-Fedler with her crown as the newest Miss Junior Rodeo Iowa to complete the ensemble.

Eaves-Fedler’s corona tion celebration was held at the BPOE Elks Lodge #374 Sunday afternoon in front of about 50 family and friends. She is the daughter of David and Trish Fedler of Fort Madison.

"Well, I’ve never really ran for a title before, besides the Little Miss Rodeo, and I decided, ‘Hey, why not do this, it’s the last chance at this age.’"

-Kami Eaves-Fedler, Miss Junior Rodeo Iowa

Eaves-Fedler is engaged in a lot of work, including school, that is representative of a rodeo queen including a membership in the local saddle club, gymnastics and dance, she helps with local Relay for Life events that benefit cancer research, attends vacation bible school and helps with the Fort Madison theater group, Old Fort Players.

She also tends to three cats, three dogs and a horse Maggie.

She said her future may hold becoming a physician and working for Justin Sports Medicine, an offshoot of the Justin Boots Company. Running for the title of Little Miss Rodeo Iowa was a learning experience as Eaves-Fedler overcame some obstacles.

FORT MADISON - Lee County residents could be seeing a 10-12 percent increase in their Alliant Energy bill in the next two years, and a six to eight percent increase in the next month.

According to Joel Schmidt, vice president of regulatory affairs, Alliant will be applying to the Iowa Utilities Board for a rate increase on April 3. The energy company has not submitted a request for a rate increase since 2010.

The rate increase will be in the range of 10 to 12% in base utility rates for customers and would eventually result in a $12 to $14 monthly increase on an average $100 monthly bill. The utility will ask for an interim increase while the request works its way through the public hearing process. Schmidt said the interim rate increase would be about two-thirds of the final rate increase and the interim would go into effect about 10 days following the application with the board. If approved, the rate increase would be phased in over a two-year period and Schmidt said Alliant is hoping to utilize some credits to help reduce the amount of the rate increase.

the anxiety that goes with pageant competitions. “I ran for Little Miss Rodeo,” she said. “I didn’t win because at that age I was nervous about doing things. I just kind of stood up there and didn’t do anything,” she said.

But this time went a bit differently as Eaves-Fedler prepared a speech on the rodeo and had to have a dress made.

She said she decided in June last year they she wanted to give the pageant another shot. “Well, I’ve never really ran for a title before, besides the Little Miss Rodeo, and I decided, ‘Hey why not do this, it’s the last chance at this age,’ she said.

But she was quick to recognize the help and support she received and seems to be quickly overcoming her stage fright. “I’m excited for the opportunity to represent the State of Iowa, the sport of rodeo and I look forward to traveling,” Eaves-Fedler told the group. “None of this would have happened.”

Eaves-Fedler’s mother Trish said the pageant has been a part of her family’s life for a long time. “It’s been quite a road for Kami as far as getting her prepared for the pageant. She was very nervous about the public speaking but it seems today she’s getting over that,” her mother said.

“Being a rodeo queen is a big process. There’s a lot you have to go through. I think it’s good the pageant has this division. It meant a lot to have her Uncle Bob crown her.”

She said she’s glad her daughter has the opportunity to work through the introductory level of the pageant as the Miss Junior. “She was unsure of it and it’s very overwhelming so at this level they can bring her along at a bit of a better pace for her,” she said.

“This is our rodeo family and we’re very proud to be a part of it. Uncle Bob helped bring this pageant to this area and he believes in it wholeheartedly. So we’ve all grown up around this pageant.”

Bradon to monitor juvenile shooting case closely

Lee County Attorney Ross Braden said the county will be prosecuting Richers as a juvenile and Mio Santiago, an assistant in the office is assigned to the case, however, Braden said he will be working very closely with Santiago on the case. Braden was in contact with officers at the scene of the shooting by telephone. "I will be very hands on with it," Braden said today. During a traffic stop on Saturday, a family member who was driving to the residence in Denmark at a high rate of speed told a Lee County Sheriff's deputy about the incident, prompting the deputy to send rescue personnel from Lee County EMS, Denmark Fire and Rescue, Lee County Sheriff's Department and AirEvac to the scene.

No details were released pertaining to the type of gun used in the shooting. A hearing was set for this afternoon at North Lee County Courthouse.
