Cleaning up the city

BURLINGTON - The Fort Madison Bloodhounds boys tennis team continues to make easy work of local dual meets. The Hounds knocked off host Burlington 7-2 on Friday night in a makeup event that was rained out earlier this month.

As has been the case this year, FMHS is getting out to a quick start winning in the high-seed matches.

Sam Avery made easy work of Brett Levins at No. 1 singles with a 6-1, 6-0 win. Johnny Hernandez then blanked Kyle Miller at No. 2 singles with a 6-0, 6-0 win. Junior Austin Krueger, who has probably one of the strongest serves on the squad, dropped Zach Hull at No. 3 singles 6-2, 6-3.

The Grayhounds got on the board at No. 4 when Blake Feuerhammer fell in a tiebreak to the Grayhounds’ Cody Newman.

“That match could have gone either way. It was a very well played, hard

Too much in play behind the scenes

BY CHUCK VANDENBERG

I t’s not supposed to work like this. I find myself perplexed these past few weeks about the functionality of our county officials.

I’m extremely confused about the bizarre moving of the Lee County Health Department from their current leased space to the North Lee County office buildings. Lee County Attorney Ross Braden advised the LCHD staff to relocate temporarily and said he hoped more information would be available next week.

The timing is crazy considering the LCHD is looking to county voters to pass a referendum to construct a new $2.6 million operations-ready facility west of the current Lee County Jail on May 2, a mere nine days away.

Braden and other county officials say that has nothing to do with this, it’s just really bad timing. Let’s take that at face value, but look at the issue closer.

The LCHD obviously needed a legal opinion from the top legal officer in the county and he gave his advice, which they took. But why did they need a legal opinion? Personally, it sounds like a lease issue. I’ve never understood why the LCHD is in a lease that requires them to absorb maintenance costs on issues like furnaces in a building they don’t own. I certainly wouldn’t sign a rental agreement if the landlord said those kind of repairs were on my dime.

But as I’ve run this over and over in my mind and spoke on background with lots of people close to the situation, I’ve come to the realization that I don’t really care why they moved. I’m not bright enough to see an advantage in the election for moving to the current building other than creating an image of ‘it’s not working out’ in the current building. Not to mention the large “Vote Here” sign now in front of the county building. What is a bigger concern is why the public isn’t entitled to that information?

Iowa’s Sunshine laws are geared toward keeping most of the work of public bodies and officials in front of the public and not done with a disregard for their right to know most of what is going on. But again, my instincts are that this IS something else and an issue that just happened, fortuitous or not for Braden and the LCHD, both of whom are on the ballot May 2.

I tried to reach AgeMark, the company that owns

Shannan continues hot foot with four goals Friday

WASHINGTON - Just five games into the season, the Fort Madison girls soccer team has hit a milestone.

The Lady Hounds blasted eight goals in Friday’s 8-0 win over Washington on the road in Southeast Conference high school girls soccer action.

Head Coach Sebastian Seifert said his squad has already scored as many goals this year as they have in any year in the past.

In the three seasons of this program’s existence we have never scored more than 15 goals,” Seifert said. “We are now at that milestone, having scored 15 goals in the first five games. That fact alone is very exciting for us.”

Junior Taylor Shannan again led the way for Fort Madison with four goals from her left wing position. Senior Emily Wolf, who was voted co-player of the game along with Shannan, had three goals and Deirez Kline added the eighth score.

Fort Madison didn’t score until the 15 minute mark in the first half, but then rattled off five more shots in the net before the end of the first half to take a 6-0 lead at halftime.

“We had a rough start to the game, our passes didn’t connect quite as well as Coach Burken and I would have liked but the girls figured it out after a while and with about 15 minutes into the first half we scored our first goal!” Seifert said. “We put in a lot of subs throughout the game. We have three games next week so we wanted to rotate quite a bit. Allison Brune and Kalifa McCaleb played a good game as our defensive mids making sure the ball didn’t penetrate through our defensive line. We only allowed a couple of shots on our goal all game.”

Seifert also said the team’s 3-2 record is an exciting part of the season.

“That’s something this program has not experienced before so we are just excited about the little things in life right now. We are happy that the team is getting along so well. We have a really good chemistry at the beginning of the season.”

The girls travel to Macon, Ill on Monday for a 4:30 p.m. kickoff.

Feuerhammer won the first set 7-5, but lost the second 4-6 and then fell behind a serve in the tiebreak and lost 10-7 to lose the match.

The Hounds won at Nos. 5 and 6 when Tim Shin defeated Alex Nelson 6-0, 6-1 and Gage Hind downed Jackson Villont 6-2, 6-1.

In doubles action, the Hounds’ Avery and Kreuger defeated Levins and Miller 6-2, 6-2. Hernandez and Feuerhammer had a tougher time with their match dropping the first set 4-6, but then coming back for a 6-4 win to send the match to a first-to-10-by two tiebreaker, which the Hounds won 10-8.

The Grayhounds won the No. 3 doubles match when Nelson and Villont downed Shin and Hind in another tiebreaker with Fort Madison winning the first set 6-1, but then dropping the second set 4-6 and the tiebreaker 4-10.

The Hounds will test the 4-1 dual record Tuesday when they host Fairfield at FMHS.

the building from which LCHD leases space. Obviously no one returned that call. None of these people or agencies, aside from AgeMark, are immune from conducting business in a fashion that is consumable by the public as a whole.
Consumable being the key word. In my time in Fort Madison media, which is more than just the past 15 months, most
public bodies do
their best to only
conduct business
outside of public
view when it is necessary to protect privacy or not
to tip their hands
in a legal battle.
But the public has
the responsibility to stay informed of what’s going on. Public meeting notices are posted on our website and social media outlets and in local papers. Not knowing the speed limit doesn’t excuse you from paying the fine. It was posted.
If you didn’t know...you didn’t read.

This is at the heart of a recent Lee County Conservation board’s decision to not hire Rick Tebbs, a local conservation department employee who was clearly,
according to comments made in a recent Pen City Current article, being groomed to take over the position.
When Tebbs didn’t get the gig, more than 30 people descended on the board’s meeting in April to criticize the board for not hiring Tebbs.
The Daily Democrat called for the ouster of all the board members except for Sandra Fullhart-Snyer who voted for Tebbs. Personally, I think that’s a knee jerk reaction and has a huge chilling effect on John Q. Public’s ambition to serve on boards. However the behavior of most of the board in not reading submitted letters of support for Tebbs is a poor performance on their part to be sure. And shows that maybe the
handwriting was already on the
wall, so to speak.
Lee County
Supervisor Don Hunold said at last week’s supervisor meeting that the board made the best decision for the county, “end of story”. Maybe... but for many on the board and for those in attendance...
maybe not.
I’m not naive to the fact that a lot of public business is done over a cup of coffee or a sandwich, but the message to the elected and appointed officials is this...
It should never ever be about what you want, but what we need.
You should be going about your responsibilities always with a nod toward keeping the public informed.
But that’s Beside the Point.

Austin Rose is surrounded by family and coaches as he signs to play basketball at Clarke College in Dubuque. “I saw a lot of potential in the team and the coaches.” Rose said he may be asked to play guard which will be a transition from his post play at Fort Madison. “It’ll be a big transition but I think I can handle it.”

FMHS Senior Brynn Schroeder signs her letter of intent to play soccer and run track at Lawrence University in Appleton, Wis. “When I went on a visit they asked what sports I was interested in and I told them track and soccer and they said soccer was in the fall and they had several athletes that did both sports.”

Hope Gray is joined by her parents and FMHS coach Amy Doherty as she signs to play tennis at Central College.

FMHS senior sisters Mariah and Mercedes Trimble both sign letters with their family and coach to play basketball at Prairie State College. Mariah said she likes being able to play at the same school with her sister. Mariah said she may play a little guard and post and really likes their program and the coach and how positive he was. “He told me what he liked about my game and that I would be a good asset.”
