Young running to keep rural voice for district

Editor’s Note this is the last article in a series looking at the candidates running for the Fort Madison Community School District Board of Directors on Sept. 12.

FORT MADISON - After serving her first year on the Fort Madison School District Board of Directors, Gayla Young wants to keep building on the board’s momentum.

Young, who lives in the Denmark area, said she wants to continue to be a representative for the rural district residents and living in the rural area allows her to bring a different perspective to the board.

“Sometimes when you’re living in different areas you can bring a different perspective. When your in FM you hear things and when you in the outer areas we hear things to,” Young said.

“I want to continue to represent the rural areas and smaller communities so everyone’s opinion can be heard. I’d like to be re-elected because we’ve got so many great things going on right now with the new superintendent and we’re seeing that continuity. We’ve got some ideas and we want to get the community involved. I just think our work isn’t done.”

Like Tim Wondra, a current board member seeking re-election, Young feel financing the district is the toughest hurdle facing the board and she said she doesn’t think it’s going to get better any time soon.

“What the state has done with cutting their money to us has a trickle down effect. Something has to give. Whether it’s programs we hate to cut or don’t want to cut - we have to be very good stewards with our money. Lot’s we’re seeing that continuity. We’ve got some ideas and

County program looking for next class of leaders

KEOKUK - The Lee County Leadership Program is requesting applications for emerging leaders to participate in the class of 2018.

The program will train accepted applicants in community-based leadership skills. Throughout the process, participants will use their learned skills to implement projects for the better of the communities in Lee County.

Classes and events will occur October 2017 through May 2018 at various locations within Lee County. The Lee County Leadership Program is a partnership between the Fort Madison Area Chamber of Commerce, Keokuk Area Chamber of Commerce and Iowa State University Extension and Outreach.

The Lee County Leadership Program utilizes research-based leadership curriculum from ISU Extension and Outreach.

The class of 2018 will improve on four core leadership skill sets including understanding community leadership and your community, identifying issues and framing ideas, building social capital, and mobilizing resources for community action. The projects that leadership trainees will implement based off of these learned skills will be chosen from submitted projects from area nonprofit groups.

Class sessions will rotate around the various communities in Lee County and will also include local speakers that provide examples of leadership. Both rural areas and towns will be showcased.

In addition to building skills and implementing

School finances a hurdle for district

"We will continue to educate the students of Fort Madison as best we can, but we won’t be able to provide everything we want to," Young said. "Without the allowable growth we have to use that same money we did two years ago."

She also wants to keep working on improving the communication between the district and the residents it serves. She pointed to the bond referendum, which she is still in support of, as an example of the work that still needs to be done to get the community involved in district goals.

"When we had the bond referendum we wanted people to ask us questions, but people wouldn’t come - we didn’t get the turnout. We want to see community involvement. We don’t just want to hear that they’re unhappy about something, we want them to come tell us why," she said.

"The bottom line is what is best for our students and families of the district. What can we do to make sure we’re getting the prepared for the 21st century whether that’s college or work. It’s our job to make sure we can work with the staff and the state and our administrators."

Repeated attempts to reach Brad Menke for this article were unrepeated. Menke has turned in papers to seek a spot on the board.

Lady Hounds returning four 1st-teamers

FMHS spikers looking for a run a state tourney

BY CHUCK VANDENBERG
PCC EDITOR

FORT MADISON - The Fort Madison girls volleyball team is hoping to build on last year’s conference title for a deeper run in the post season. The Hounds ended the season 22-10 with a loss to Cedar Rapids Xavier in the second round of the post season after knocking off Keokuk.

Junior Amber Dilsaver returns as the Southeast Conference’s most dangerous player at the net with 387 kills, a full 178 ahead of Fairfield’s Shelby Heston. Dilsaver also finished the season with a 30% kill efficiency. A kill is a scoring hit off a spike or tip. Defensively she led the conference with 79 blocks on the season.

Senior Courtney Woodley was fifth overall in the loop in 2016 with 185 kills and 15% kill efficiency. Senior Kaeli Hutson and senior McKenna Felske were also in the top 10 in kills for the Hounds.

“Our kids wanna win conference again this year. Last year we went 8-0 and did that, but now we want to move beyond second round and get that chance to go to state,” said Head Coach Kent Bailey.

The Hounds lost two components of the Southeast Iowa Conference championship team in Chayse Lowney and Brittney Harris, but are returning four 1st team all conference players in Dilsaver, Woodley, and sophomores Kaeli Hutson and Josie Pumphrey.

Bailey, who’s in his first year back as head coach, has seen most of the girls on his team when he was junior varsity coach and through youth volleyball.

“I’ve coached a lot of these kids previously,” Bailey said. “I was junior varsity coach for the past three years so I know them and they know me. They know what gets me frustrated and it’s usually attitude more than play.”

Senior Leigh Johnson almost doubled the field as a junior with 802 assists to lead the conference in 2016 at close to 10 assists per set.

“We’ve got Leigh back as a setter and Amber back in the middle. We’re also going to relying on McKenna Felske as an outside hitter, Jazmine Bass at the outside or maybe middle hitter. Shyla Farmer is working on the outside hitter spot and Courtney is back in the outside hitter spot,” Bailey said.

Pumphrey was third in the conference in digs last year with 304 at 3.62/set.

Senior Kamryn Bailey will return as a back up hitter and defensive specialist with 1.54 digs per set.

Bailey said Fairfield will be the toughest competition.

Helping out Bailey on the staff will be Mike Davis. Davis was a junior varsity coach under former coach Mike Helling and works with Burlington clubs.

The preseason has been productive for the Hounds who played at an Iowa State camp and walked away with a title among 16 teams.

“We won our division and the kids were able to come home with medals,” Bailey said. “We took three seniors, two juniors a sophomore and two freshmen. It was team camp so we got to see a lot of different teams. There were 16 teams in our division.”

Bailey said recent trends would indicate that Fairfield will pose the toughest threat to in the conference. The Lady Trojans went 21-12 on the season followed by Mt. Pleasant 17-15.

Bailey will get help on the bench from Mike Davis who was a junior varsity coach under Mike Helling and helps out with Burlington clubs.

Amy Doherty and Kayla Hendrix will also be helping this year.
Dr. Mark C. Pothitakis will begin seeing patients on Wednesdays in the downtown Fort Madison office beginning August 23.
