Resident tells supervisors the solution is fining violators

BY CHUCK VANDENBERG
PCC EDITOR

MONTROSE - A Lee County resident has had it with cleaning up the ditches near the county landfill and asked officials Tuesday morning to send a message that enough is enough. Steve Koellner spoke to Lee County Supervisors during a workshop after Tuesday's regular meeting asking why fines and citations aren't being issued to landfill users who aren't tarping their loads.

Koellner initially read a prepared statement to the supervisors.

“I have spoken with Fort Madison City Manager David Varley and Public Works Director Larry Driscoll, who both said this is the responsibility of the county,” Koellner said. “To give everyone here an example, in spring of 2016 I personally picked up trash from the bottom of the 15th Street Hill to the bypass. It took me six weeks and I picked up 65 bags of trash, these are the orange 55 gallon bags. In addition to that, I picked up two pickup loads that wouldn't fit in a bag namely plywood, lumber, tires, large pieces of cardboard etc.”

He said then in 2017 he contacted Holy Trinity Catholic High school to get students to help pick up the road from Airport Road to the bypass and more than 40 bags were collected.

“This is the most highly traveled road coming into Fort Madison from the bypass. This litter presents a negative image for not only Fort Madison, but Lee County and the State of Iowa. It's sending the wrong signal to first time visitors, tourists, rodeo visitors, etc. In addition this eye sore is doing nothing for economic development. I truly believe that first time visitors will never return when they see this.”

Currently, motorists hading trash face a fine up to $100 for running unsecured loads through town to the Great River Regional Waste Authority landfill, across from Rodeo Park on 303rd Avenue. Landfill staff can see TRASH, page 6.

Lee County resident Steve Koellner, right, and Fort Madison Partners Executive Director Tim Gobble address the Lee County Board of Supervisors Tuesday morning about the trash piling up along 303rd Avenue from the top of 15th Street to the bypass.

On-board computers next for sheriff

New systems already in the budget for upcoming year

BY CHUCK VANDENBERG
PCC EDITOR

MONTROSE - Lee County Supervisors heard a brief update on a program to put computers in patrol cars beginning in July.

At the Tuesday workshop following the regular Lee County Board meeting, Lee County Sheriff Stacy Weber updated the board on a proposal that was in the department's 2018-19 budget to outfit 10 deputy patrol cars with new computers.

“What we want is to outfit the 10 patrol deputies with computers in their cars. We'd like to have an 11th, because computers are one of those things that can just quit without any warning, so we'd like to have an extra.” Weber said the department originally looked at a 3-year lease, but would be open to a 5-year lease to drop the payments down a little, but said interest on the agreement would be a little higher.

Lee County Chief Deputy Will Conlee told supervisors the computers, which most of the rest of the state already have, would save time for deputies, staff, and residents. He said tickets would be an issue of a scan of a driver's license and registration and the citation would be printed out immediately. The citation or accident report would also go directly into the county system which would save staff time entering the records into the system.

Weer said he expected the systems to last 10 years and are functional up to -40 degrees below zero, and economic development. I truly believe that first time visitors will never return when they see this.”

are built to be in squad cars. The lease agreement would be all inclusive with installation and maintenance included. At the end of the lease, the department would have the option to purchase the equipment at what Weber called “fair market value”. “They’ll even pick our cars up to install them, we don’t even have to do that. If there’s a problem with one, they come down,” he said. “It’s all part of the agreement. That’s part of the reason why I wanted to get the 11th one so they can pick up the one that doesn’t work and we can go on.” Lee County Auditor Denise Frase said the issue would have to put up for a public hearing because it’s a non-current budget year purchase and spans more than one year. The supervisors could then approve the lease agreement following the public hearing. The systems would require some training and other scheduled issues to get the computers in, but those trainings would be done locally.

also assess a $10 penalty for any untarped loads on the property.

“There is a $100 fine for untarped loads and signs are posted both north and south of the landfill entrance. I’ve personally never seen police or sheriff have anyone pulled over for an untarped load,” Koellner said. “Why this isn’t hap- pening, I’ve never found an answer for.”

“I don’t believe it’s only the responsibility of the county and the city and the landfill, but its un- godly the responsibility of the people bringing in these loads,” Chairman Don Hunold said. “I guess I’m a little objective to even doing a press release. I wouldn’t warn them we’re com- ing again,” Hunold said. “As far as I’m concerned I wouldn’t say a word, you drive in there – you oughta know the rules.”

Wade Hamm, GRW- WA director said inmates recently picked up 120 bags of trash along 15th Street. He said Fort Madison Mayor Brad Randolph, who’s also chairman of the landfill board, told him the city is currently trying to secure some inmate help from Mt. Pleasant. Hamm said the landfill has decided to pick up trash along the roadway once a week, but if the city is able to get some inmate help, they will alternate weeks.

“We talked at our meeting last Friday and he said the city is the pro- cess of getting a group of inmates and we’re going to police that road once a week, weather permit- ting, from 15th Street to the bypass. We’ve pur- chased a litter vac that we can tow behind the truck and we’re going to do our best to keep it cleaned up.” Hamm said.

Hamm said landfill staff has actually seen motorists pull up to the mailbox on the highway stop and put a tarp on their loads.

“We can’t police the highway, but once they’re on the property we can.” Fort Madison Partners Executive Director Tim Gobble asked Lee County Sheriff Stacy Weber if they could put a deputy in the area on Saturdays. Weber said deputies have been patrolling the area, but he said most citations are for speeding.

“I can honestly say that I don’t recall ever seeing a load that’s not tarped. But if it’s not mounded up in the back of the truck I don’t see it.”

Weber said that he will put deputies out there on Saturday more frequently to watch for violations. The sheriff’s department issued a release last year about the issue.

“We put out a notice that we were going to start citing people. You’ll see a deputy out there Saturday,” Weber said. “I’m putting it out there again, you’re gonna get a ticket if your load isn’t tarped. So don’t whine… pay the fine.”

Koellner said he’s out picking up trash regularly and always sees trucks going by with untarped loads.

“If you were to put a deputy out there for just a couple hours, I guaran- tee you’ll find somebody. I pick up trash on 15th Street hill and every time I do it I see one or two trucks going there without a tarp and that’s without a doubt. We know the problem, we need to find the solution and the solution is to fine people,” Koellner said.

Hamold also asked that residents who see un- tarped loads take a picture and submit a license number.

“We may not be able to give you a ticket, but we can give you a call and have a conversation with you.”

Supervisor Gary Folliou said the county ordi- nance is that it should be secured so as to keep debris from blowing onto the roadways.

“That’s the key word, it has to be secured and if not then they can be fined,” Folliou said.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

What was once good enough, is not good enough any more

I have heard some say that they won't bother to vote because they have no kids in the school system. Some say they went to school in Fort Madison and the grade schools were good enough for them.

As a senior citizen, who went through the Fort Madison school system, I ask you to remember: When we were in grade school, we had no air conditioning in our homes, or in the places we shopped. Our bodies were used to the heat, so the hot temperatures in the schools didn't affect us. Imagine yourself today, going from your air-conditioned home, or office into a small room with 20-30 other people with the temperature close to or over 100 °.

My children no longer live here, so I will not have grandchildren go through our school system; but - it is still our town, and our responsibility to the children of our town, to see them safe, to see them respected, and to see them get the best education they can, to be our future leaders.

Let's give them the best opportunity. They deserve it.

Blessings,

Jan Garza
