Group offers LCCB duck blind proposal

BY CHUCK VANDENBERG
PCC STAFF

FORT MADISON - In what can only be considered bucking the trend of recent meetings between duck hunters and the Lee County Conservation Board, a proposal was submitted Tuesday night that was met with appreciation and respect.

Scott Umthun, a representative of a duck blind committee consisting of about 10 people, said the group met for about three and half months with the goal of coming up with a set of rules that could govern private blinds on property owned by the county.

The conservation board said last fall that they were going to eliminate permanent blinds by 2019 due to repeated violation of duck blind regulations. That decision ran afoul with many duck hunters in the area, who then descended on the LCCB meetings, and, at several points, those meetings became very heated. At one meeting in particular, several hunters had to be removed by conservation staff, after hunters threw wadded up paper and cursed at the board and Lee County Supervisor Don Hunold, who serves as a liaison to the board.

Umthun said he wanted to leave the past in the past and said the best way forward was through good dialogue and possibly keeping the committee together to help police the bylaws and re-establish a working relationship with the board.

“I think it’s a great idea for that committee to be a small group that stays together and is involved with all the crap these guys have to put up with. So you can see where we’re at, because when we say “no” to someone they’re going to be upset,” Hunold said.

They’re back

Nick Hantzneas and Ashley McVeigh are peddling pizzas and other fare at the Parthenon that is now open again for business. Hours are 4 p.m.-9 p.m during the week and 4 p.m. to midnight Friday and Saturday, and closed Tuesday. Orders can be made by calling 319-372-7755.

HTC’s Alfred gets James Madison fellowship

BY AVA PEITZ
HTC Intern/PCC

FORT MADISON - Ryan Alfred, Holy Trinity Catholic’s 2018 Teacher of the Year, has been tapped to receive another award, a James Madison Graduate Fellowship.

A James Madison Graduate Fellowship is a $24,000 graduate fellowship awarded to “individuals desiring to become outstanding teachers of the American Constitution at the secondary school level,” according to the James Madison Foundation website. Their goal is to award one fellowship per state per year.

“The fellowship goes toward a master’s degree, and from there, Alfred will engage in other classes concerning the Constitution,” Martin Hug, COO of Agemark, parent company of The Kensington, said.

“The Kensington senior living community in Fort Madison, Iowa, welcomes Leia Morrison as its new Director. Joining a team of more than 65 locally and 800 nationally, Morrison will move into the role as former Director Rachel Benda takes a new regional position as Director of Operations for Agemark, parent company of The Kensington in Fort Madison, which currently includes 19 home-like communities for seniors across six states.

“I’m so excited to join this staff and this community,” Morrison shares. “I can’t imagine a better place to bring what I’ve learned and to continue to serve seniors. Experiencing the loving feeling in this community and seeing the commitment to caring for and respecting each resident during my interview period and now in my first week here just confirms why I chose to dedicate my career to serving seniors.”

Martin Hug, COO of Agemark, sees growth in the future for The Kensington, Benda and Morrison. “As our population ages and more individuals are exploring their options, the opportunity to meet their needs in a truly family-like, warm and loving environment also grows. We’re very happy to welcome Leia to our team,” explains Hug. “Her experience and knowledge are extremely important, of course, but it’s her passion for helping seniors find enjoyment and feel at home every day that makes her a perfect fit.”

“For more than a decade, Rachel has done an exceptional job leading our community and staff as Director of Operations,” Benda said.

they create that loving environment for our residents. In fact, under her leadership, The Kensington in Fort Madison was honored as one of only four senior communities in the entire U.S. by the American Health Care Association and National Center for Assisted Living (AHCA/NHCA) just last month, for its achievements through the Quality Initiative Recognition Program. We’re thrilled that Rachel can now share her expertise with all of the Agemark communities in her region.”

As the new Director at The Kensington in Fort Madison, Morrison brings rich experience and a strong professional background. Prior to taking the new position, she served as Executive Director at Hancock County Senior Services Association based in Carthage, Illinois. She has also served as a Division Director for one of the largest providers of short- and long-term health care services for seniors in the U.S.

Morrison holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Organizational Management from Hannibal-LaGrange University in Hannibal, Missouri and is completing her Masters of Business Administration with a healthcare focus at Ashford University. She is a Certified National Dementia Provider and holds additional certifications in Alzheimer’s/Dementia, geriatrics, nursing and chemical dependency counseling. She is an active member of several state, regional and national organizations that focus on senior services professionals and in public policy advocacy for services for the senior population.

FMMS to give reunification drill dry run

FORT MADISON – Safety is a priority in the Fort Madison Community School District. Over the past year, district officials have attended a nationally recognized conference on school safety, created a Threat Assessment Team to better organize safety protocols, implemented the use of P3 Campus (an anonymous reporting app for students and parents), and have worked vigilantly to improve the safety and security of students and staff alike.

On May 2nd, 2018, from roughly 8:30 am to 10:30 am, Fort Madison Middle School (FMMS) will be conducting a reunification drill. Reunification refers to the process of exiting the building in case of an emergency and reuniting at a designated area.

The purpose of the drill is threefold: to ensure all students and staff can exit the building properly, to observe the process of rallying to and taking attendance at the reunification point, and to return back to the building safely.

This is viewed by FMMS administration, school personnel, and the threat assessment team as an opportunity to learn and improve.

To an effort to be open and transparent to parents and the community, the FMMS is announcing the drill ahead of time. FMMS Parents are welcome to observe the drill from an assigned vantage point near Baxter’s Sports Complex through reservation for FMMS parents only by the end of the school day on Friday, April 27th.

FMMS is appreciative of the partnership it has formed with Baxter’s Sport Complex in developing a reciprocal agreement for use of facilities as reunification areas. Safety and security is best accomplished through collaboration with various organizations and agencies.

Law enforcement personnel will also be present and involved in controlling traffic around the middle school during the drill to ensure that students are safe at all times.

The drill is designed to help improve the safety and security of the school community. FMMS hopes to include other agencies in future drills to best prepare for any scenario that may cause the need for reunification.

Alfred got fellowship on first try

Alfred was motivated to apply because of his passion for government. “I’ve always wanted to obtain my masters degree and I think I have an interest in government and the constitution, and that really made me want to apply,” he said.

Alfred said that most people are given the fellowship after applying multiple times, and he wasn’t expecting to only apply once. “With this being my first year, I thought I’d at least have to apply a couple of times;” he said.

Earlier this year, Alfred went on the Holy Trinity’s senior class trip to Washington D.C., and is glad to be going back.

“I’m excited to go out to Washington D.C. and see D.C. again and go in and learn more about something I’m passionate about, as well as teach my students better about the country they live in and the world they live in.”

While looking back at the beginning of his teaching career, Alfred remarked that the impact he has on students is more important than his accomplishments.

“It’s just realizing how many kids you’ve impacted and knowing that they’re learning all this information,” he said.

“The most memorable thing from my teaching is being able to teach the kids about the world they live in and making them future leaders. I think that’s more important than what I’ve accomplished.”

Committee may help keep program on track

Umthun said having the committee stick together could take the heat off the board in helping make some of the decisions on such things as when weather would dictate pulling the blinds before waters freeze up.

The group submitted a 3-page proposal that outlined how permanent blinds could work on county-owned property.

“We as a committee under-forward, “ Umthun said.

“We have a proposal that offers us a way to do this.”

The proposal was seven sections and serves as a one-year contract that would be reviewed annually. The proposal outlines definitions, blind position drawings, construction, use of blinds, removal of blinds, and failure to comply. The agreement also serves as a hold harmless against the county and the conservation board for any potential legal issues. The agreement also outlines materials that are acceptable for the blind and decoys.

“You guys have done a lot of pick and shovel work and have worked really hard and I really appreciate that work,” said board member Bill Mullan. Umthun said he wanted to apologize to the board for the way he was treated.

“We as a committee understand the ill feeling that was given to this group. I think we can make something work, I honestly do. If I didn’t, I wouldn’t be on this committee. I don’t like beating my head against the wall.”

The proposal was seven sections and serves as a one-year contract that would be reviewed annually. The proposal outlines definitions, blind position drawings, construction, use of blinds, removal of blinds, and failure to comply. The agreement also serves as a hold harmless against the county and the conservation board for any potential legal issues.

One of the highlights of the proposal is a $250 deposit before the blind position drawing and each drawing card must have a minimum of three names on it. If the party is not happy with the drawing position they can pass on the site and be refunded their $250 on the drawing day only. Any abandonment of the site after the day of the drawing would result in a forfeit of the deposit. Any violations of the potential agreement would result in the same penalties for all the members on the drawing card. Any sites not selected during the draw day would be available on a first-come, first-serve basis until the next drawing.

Umthun said having a minimum of three names on the drawing card makes it more difficult for someone to skirt the rules because the other people would be subject to the same penalty.

According to the proposal, blinds must be a minimum of 4’x8’ and sturdy enough to withstand daily usage and must be maintained throughout the season. The blind would be required to have a number visible from outside the blind and it must be placed within 10 feet of the assigned stake.

The proposal also outlines materials that are acceptable for the blind and decoys.

“You guys have done a lot of pick and shovel work and have worked really hard and I really appreciate that work,” said board member Bill Mullan. Umthun said he wanted to apologize for the way he was treated.
