SE Iowa focus of traffic inventory

BY PCC STAFF

AMES - The Iowa Department of Transportation is working across the state this spring and summer to determine how many cars, trucks, and other vehicles are using the state, county, and city roadways. This year's efforts are concentrated in southeast Iowa, but occasionally crews will work elsewhere in the state. Some employees will spend peak hours between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. at a location counting the morning, noon, and evening traffic. They count and classify vehicles, record vehicle turning movements, and gather other data necessary to assist in planning the future of Iowa's roadway system.

Other employees will be placing and checking portable traffic recorders in the same general areas. When the recorders are set, they usually record data for one or two days and are checked periodically. Employees responsible for the recorders work various shifts, including hours outside of a traditional business day.

Other data collection initiatives include verifying or collecting railroad crossing information and inventorying transit facilities across the entire state. Rail crossing characteristics such as the number of tracks, the type of crossing, and other features are recorded by the crews.

LCHD Hospice puts seven through volunteer program

Submitted article
FORT MADISON - Since 1989 Lee County Health Department-Hospice has been providing hospice services to the surrounding area. Also since that time the Hospice program requires that a percentage of the direct care to clients has to be provided by volunteers. This year seven community members chose to go through the four-week training to become a volunteer for LCHD-Hospice program.

Hospice professionals and volunteers are dedicated to ensuring that patients spend their final days in dignity, comfort, and peace. Hospice volunteers work as part of the Hospice team and are needed to provide help and support to patients with a terminal illness. The training class prepares volunteers to work with terminally ill patients and their families. Topics covered are: Hospice program and services, the volunteer’s role in helping patients and families, communication techniques, comfort/care measures, grief processes and how to help someone in grief. Volunteers are required to have a criminal background check and to receive a TB test before working with hospice families.

“One of the biggest concerns of new volunteers is the idea that they would like to be a hospice volunteer, but feel maybe they are not quite ready to volunteer in a client’s home. We encourage them to take the class anyway and then set them up to volunteer in the office or with community events until they are ready,” said Jeri Giebelhausen, Support Services Coordinator.

Hospice started more than 40 years ago as a total volunteer organization and now with Medicare guidelines Hospice requires that a percentage of direct client care be provided by volunteers. Lee County Health Dept-Hospice started 29 years ago and has been very fortunate that the years so many community members have supported the program by becoming volunteers. “We still have a few of the seasoned volunteers that went through the training back in the early 1990’s with our organization today,” Giebelhausen shared, “Families are very grateful for the time volunteers spend with their loved ones. We know we could not run the program without them.”

Lee County Health Department – Hospice is a Medicare certified program providing in-home care and support services to the terminally ill and their families in their homes and nursing facilities in the Iowa counties of Lee, Des Moines, Van Buren and Henry and in the Illinois counties of Hancock and Henderson.

For more information about Hospice volunteering, please call Lee County Health Department – Hospice at 319-372-5225 or 800-458-6672, visit our website www.leecountyhosp.org, or like us on Facebook.

State collecting data on SE Iowa traffic patterns types of warning devices, including signs, lights, horns, and control gates present are entered into a handheld field computer. This information is then used in rail crossing planning, engineering, and safety purposes. The transit facility data will be utilized to assist in determining remaining useful life as well as any needed improvements related to changes in usage.

Other statewide work scheduled for this summer includes the installation, upgrading, and maintenance of permanent traffic recorders and weigh-in-motion equipment at continuous count station locations. The information gathered allows transportation officials to better predict traffic volume and weight trends, allowing them to plan improvements that will give Iowans the most benefit for each dollar spent.

Citizens in the area can expect to see Iowa DOT employees and vehicles in their communities all hours of the day. All of this work is critical to the future of the state’s transportation system.

Mother, daughter consider each other mirrors

Tammy. Tammy’s cancer was ductile while her mother’s was invasive. The recommended treatment for both mother and daughter at the University of Iowa Hospital and Clinics was lumpectomies followed by radiation treatments. Tammy was to have radiation treatment five days a week for five weeks. But Tammy didn’t feel comfortable with the treatment. She was aware that if you have breast cancer and it comes back, it comes back with a vengeance, and you can’t have radiation on the same breast twice. She and her mother will go to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota for a second opinion.

Tammy’s feeling is that she’s had a full life, she’s 47, she’s had her children, and because of family history, she would just as soon have a double mastectomy and be done with it. Because of her mother’s age, 69, and health condition, a mastectomy is not recommended. Her mother’s probable treatment will be a lumpectomy followed by radiation.

Tammy wants everyone to know that there will be no disruption in service at the salon while she is away because her team has her back. Customers can also schedule their appointments for when Tammy returns. Work is the best therapy for Tammy. She may not be able to raise her arms, but she’ll get the job done, by golly.

Tammy’s daughter, Jayde, is about to graduate from college, was recently married in Scotland, and designed Tammy’s salon. She is going to undergo early testing.

Coincidentally, or perhaps not so coincidentally, the major color in Tammy’s salon sign is purple. As in cancer awareness.
