PORT passes $500K for Phase IV trail

IDOT approves $91,000 to go with other funding sources

FORT MADISON – The Fort Madison PORT trail committee was notified this morning that a grant from the Iowa Department of Transportation has pushed them over $500,000 toward the cost of the trail’s Phase III.

Rachel Benda, the chairwoman of the PORT committee, said she was notified this morning of the IDOT grant and said that gives the committee about $571,000 total and costs, not including a donation of land from Fort Madison Community Hospital, were calculated at about $500,000.

“We are thrilled to hear the news about receiving $91,000 from the State Recreation Trails today,” Benda said Tuesday morning. “We have been very fortunate to have a lot of great support thus far in all three phases of our PORT trail system.”

The total funds to date for the third phase of the project came from a $100,000 Wellmark grant that had to be triggered with matching funds, which the group received from the Southeast Iowa Regional Riverboat Commission. Another $280,000 came from an Iowa Transportation Alternatives Program (TAP) grant, as well as local businesses and a committee challenge. The committee also had some funds in the bank.

Resident’s of the Clearview Heights subdivision on Fort Madison’s western edge are asking the county supervisors to look at an ordinance banning the use of “jake-braking” in residential areas.

Residents say county grades don’t require loud braking

BY CHUCK VANDENBERG

MONTROSE - Several residents voiced concern to county officials Tuesday about the noise associated with trucks on highways near residential areas.

At Tuesday’s regular Lee County Board of Supervisors meeting, four residents from the Clearview Heights subdivision expressed concern about the use of jake-brakes.

“As Clearview Heights owners, we have some concerns about the noise control of the highway from the jake brakes from fertilizer trucks and other trucks coming down the highway and from Highway 2,” said resident Richard Azinger.

“There’s a lot of noise and these truck drivers don’t have any signage to tell them to slow down.”

A jake brake is an engine brake for diesel trucks that cuts off fuel flow and interrupts the transfer of mechanical energy to the drive mechanism, but results in a loud, repeated exhaust ‘bark’ as part of the slowing process.

Azinger presented a petition to the supervisors signed by the residents of the subdivision.

Supervisor Rick Larkin said Azinger’s group wasn’t the first one to bring that up in the county.

“Some of the other roads people have had some complaints but they haven’t done a petition or anything and I’ve talked with the county engineer and they said they don’t have it any where in Lee County, but...”

FEMA to unroll new floodplain maps

BY PCC STAFF

FORT MADISON - On October 24th, the Iowa Dept. of Natural Resources and the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) will host an Open House to present preliminary floodplain maps to Lee County citizens.

The meeting will be held at the Lee County Office Building, 933 Avenue H, Fort Madison on Wednesday, Oct. 24th, from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. The meeting is open to the public.

The open house will provide property owners an opportunity to view the preliminary maps and learn how their flood risk may have changed. Representatives from FEMA and the Iowa DNR will be on hand to answer questions and address residents’ concerns about the preliminary flood maps.

Floodping is the number one natural disaster in the United States. It is vital that property owners understand their risk and take advantage of tools or programs available to them, including flood insurance. These preliminary maps provide a tool for communicating flood risk to property owners. The maps will eventually become the basis for local communities’ floodplain management measures. Insurance companies will use the maps to determine flood insurance rates for buildings and contents.

As a result of these map changes, some buildings throughout Lee County may, for the first time, may be included in a high-risk flood zone, known as the Special Flood Hazard Area. This may result in those affected homeowners being required to purchase flood insurance.

Additional information is available at www.fema.gov/preliminaryfloodhazarddata. Residents with questions can contact the Iowa Dept. of Natural Resources at 515-725-8332 or Ken.Bouma@dnr.iowa.gov.

Noisy brakes get supervisors’ attention

that doesn’t mean they can’t.

Larkin said he’s also spoken with Lee County Sheriff Stacy Weber who said it’s difficult to enforce because it’s difficult to catch.

Jim Noll, another resident in the subdivision, said he pulled a list of 20 counties in the state that are also wrestling with the issue.

“It probably hasn’t been an issue here because we’re relatively flat compared to counties in the northeast part of the state,” Noll said.

He said truckers who’ve been on the road a while said the grade of hills in Lee County don’t need jake-brakes.

“A lot of times it’s just some guy that likes to hear a brake. Let’s face it, it’s no different than a Harley motorcycle to a cycler as it is to a trucker. Not all of them, but there’s apparently some because I can tell you, you can almost set your watch by it.”

Noll also referred supervisors to Iowa Code 321.436 governing muffler and loud noises produced by motor vehicles.

Azinger said a lot of times it 2 and 3 a.m. and it’s very loud.

Another resident expressed concern about posting speed limit signs on the ramps to warn the truck drivers. She said there’s no turning lane until you get to the turning lanes for northbound Highway 61 bypass off Hwy. 2.

Gary Folluo said the City of Keokuk has an ordinance prohibiting the use of jake brakes and the county could draft an ordinance similar, but it would require input from County Engineer Ernie Steffensmeier and County Attorney Ross Braden.

“I would say you would do it in posted areas,” Folluo said.

Supervisor Ron Fedler said any signage for Hwy. 61 would have to include discussions with the state because the Iowa Department of Transportation has authority over those routes, other than business districts.

Folluo said he would also bring the issue up with the IDOT’s district planner for this part of the state.

“The DOT has been going around and looking at problematic situations and getting information to make a report to the state.”

DNR to drop more rainbow trout at Wilson Lake

DONNELLSON - Wilson Lake will once again be a part of a statewide rainbow trout stock this fall. Seventeen lakes across Iowa are gearing up to receive trout this fall. The Iowa Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will release between 1,000 to 2,000 rainbow trout at each location as part of its cool weather trout program that brings trout to areas that cannot support them during the summer months.

The stocking at Wilson Lake is set for noon on Saturday, Oct. 27.

“Grab your neighbors, friends and kids and try trout fishing this fall,” said Joe Larscheid, chief of the Iowa DNR Fisheries Bureau. “It’s time well spent. The fish are here, easy to catch and good to eat.”

The fall community trout stockings are a great place to take kids to catch their first fish. A small hook with a night crawler or corn under a small bobber or small simple spinners such as a panther martin or mepps is all you need to get in on the fun.

Bringing trout to cities and towns offers a “close to home” option for Iowans who might not travel to northeast Iowa to discover trout fishing. A family friendly event is often paired with the stocking to help anglers have success and fun while fishing.

The popular program is supported by the sales of the trout fee. Anglers need a valid fishing license and pay the trout fee to fish for or possess trout. The daily limit is five trout per licensed angler with a possession limit of 10.

Children age 15 or younger can fish for trout with a properly licensed adult, but they must limit their catch to one daily limit. The child can purchase a trout fee which will allow them to catch their own limit.
Group still raising funds for trail enhancements

Benda said the fundraising isn’t over, however, as several other pieces that will enhance trail users’ experience are still in the works.

“We have a good portion of our money raised for Phase III, we are contemplating adding a few extra pieces for ease of use and safety for those utilizing the trails. So the fundraising isn’t over just yet,” she said.

The committee is hosting its annual Boo-Athlon on Oct. 27 at the Baxter Sports Complex to help continue to raise funds for the project.

“We’re gonna be raffling off a bicycle that day, too. So you’re not going to want to miss out on that,” Benda said.

In addition to the PORT project, the IDOT commission approved a total of $1,309,100 for five State Recreational Trails Program projects.

The State Recreational Trails Program was created in 1988 with the purpose of developing and maintaining recreational trails and trail-related facilities for both motorized and non-motorized trail users. This funding is available to cities, counties, state agencies, local governments, and nonprofit organizations through an annual application-based program.
