Smith ends 43-year Rodeo ride

BY CHUCK VANDENBERG
PCC EDITOR

FORT MADISON – He started hocking food in 1975 at the Rodeo as a way to get his face out in the public after he and his wife purchased an eye care business in Fort Madison.

Forty-three years later, Larry Smith, one of the most renowned and relied upon names in Fort Madison, is ending his “rodeo career” with Tri-State Rodeo. Smith announced at the board’s meeting in January, that he was stepping off the Tri-State Rodeo Board of Directors in 2019.

Growing up in southwest Iowa near Creston, Smith considers himself an Iowa “farmboy”. He graduated high school near Creston, at what is now the CAM Community School District. He studied at Iowa State University in a pre-optometry program before finishing his degree at the University of Indiana.

He started working in the Rodeo food tents as part of the Fort Madison Jaycees, who used to handle the vending at the Rodeo prior to the Fort Madison Aquinas and Holy Trinity Catholic taking over food and beverage services.

He continued to work with the Jaycees for several years and then began to take on more community roles including being a part of the Fort Madison Chamber of Commerce. As the Chamber President in 1983, Smith had a seat on the Rodeo Operating Committee and in 1984, Larry Roberts, the operating committee chairman, asked Smith to help bring back Pre-Rodeo Days.

“One of the first things we did was book Sawyer Brown, who had just won Ed McMahon’s Star Search and we had them in on a Wednesday at the arena to kick things off that year,” Smith said.

Another event that set up was Kids & Clowns Day at Victory Park. Smith said the committee underestimated the attendance and things got out of hand as legendary Rodeo clowns including Leon Coffey were on hand to sign autographs for the kids.

“There were way more people there than we planned and we had to keep sending volunteers to the stores for hot dogs and stuff. Then the winds were like 30 mph that day and we were chasing hot dog wrappers all over the park. That could have been my last...”

Past General Chairman says it was his “small” way of giving back to the community that has given so much to him.

FM can’t muster another comeback win over Panthers

BY CHUCK VANDENBERG

FORT MADISON — It was shaping up to be another buzzer beater between the Bloodhounds and the Mt. Pleasant Panthers Friday night.

Just before the holiday break, Fort Madison’s Logan Rashid converted a free throw with no time on the clock to beat Mt. Pleasant on the road. But in the rematch at the Hound Dome Friday night, the Hounds came up short as Mt. Pleasant knocked off Fort Madison 52-47 in Southeast Conference boys basketball action.

Fort Madison was trailing 47-40 with 1:45 left on the clock in the game, when Logan Rashid drove the lane from the top of the key and was fouled by 6’4” Sam Beatty. Rashid hit both free throws to make it 42-47.

The Panthers had run a stall in the previous possession that took almost 1:30 off the clock and then scored on an easy bucket inside senior Rhett Zeglin after Fort Madison got stretched chasing the extended offense around looking for a turnover.

The Hounds tried to press the Panthers off Rashid’s free throws to keep them from setting up the stall again and FM’s Jace Burgher fouled Zeglin going for a steal on an outlet pass over the halfcourt line, which put the Panthers into the first bonus situation of the game.

Zeglin made just the front end of a free throw that clanked off the back of the rim, sat dead for a moment and then rolled into the net. He missed the second and the Hounds were off to the races with 1:24 left on the clock to beat Mt. Pleasant.

The Bloodhounds opened the scoring on a short jumper by Rashid, but Mt. Pleasant would then outpace the Hounds 12-7 the rest of the quarter with Kohorst, Zeglin, and Beatty doing the damage.

Fort Madison clamped down on the defense in the 2nd quarter allowing just seven shots from the floor, four of which the Panthers missed. Junior Parker Denning hit a three pointer to cut the lead to 14-12 in the opening seconds of the second.

Denning converted a 3-point play scoring underneath with a foul by Beatty, who got turned around on a pretty pass from Rashid that slipped through on a fast break. Denning converted the free throw to bring Fort Madison to within one at 18-17.

Mt. Pleasant’s Brody Render would make the front end of a free throw in the Panthers’ next possession and then Davis would score for Fort Madison on a drive from the left side to tie it up at 19.

The two teams would tie again at 21 and then Rashid would score the final four points of the half on two short jumpers, the last of which was an 18-foot fade away as time expired with Mt. Pleasant up 25-21.

Keaster would start the 3rd quarter with a bucket, but then Mt. Pleasant would score on the next six possessions and tie the game at 34 when Kohorst would complete a three-point play when he was fouled inside by Davis.

Mt. Pleasant would take the lead for good when Beatty out-wrestled Denning for a high inbound pass at the half-court line and raced to the other end for a dunk to give the Panthers a 38-35 lead at the end of the first.

After Rashid’s 17 points, Keester finished with 12, as the only two players in double figures for Fort Madison. Denning finished with eight points and Davis added two. Fedler, who led the conference in scoring at almost 15 points per game, was held to just two points on the night.

Jordyn Gerdes also scored a bucket to round out the scoring for Fort Madison.

Mt. Pleasant had three players in double figures led by Beatty’s 18. They are 7-8 overall and 3-4 in conference play.

On the inbound, the Hounds would go for another steal, but freshman Dayton Davis would get tangled up with Keegan Kohorst trying to pick off a pass up the court. Kohorst made both freebies to make it 50-45.

Rashid, who finished with a team high 17 points on the night, would then again penetrate off the dribble this time from the left baseline and score on a reverse layup with two Panthers chasing him through the lane, to cut the lead to 50-47.

Fort Madison would call a timeout to set up a play on the inbounds, but the Panthers would get the ball in and down the floor to Beatty who would score in the transition to set the final at 52-47.

FORT MADISON – Despite some cool first quarter shooting, the Holy Trinity girls basketball team sailed to its sixth consecutive win Saturday.

The Crusaders wound up sneaking in a make-up game with WACO Saturday afternoon and rolled to a 62-28 win led by senior Emily Box's 20-point night.

With the win, the Lady Crusaders move to 12-5 on the year and have won six straight dating back to Jan. 7. Three of HTC's losses were by a combined eight points. They suffered a lopsided loss to Van Buren in December by 33 points at home, which was their worst loss of the year. Holy Trinity travels to Van Buren on Monday.

Head Coach Tony Johnson said despite the recent success, the Crusaders haven't played their best game yet.

"I don't think we've peaked yet," he said Saturday. "We're getting better every game, but we've still got some things to get cleaned up. That's our focus, and even when we've lost we learned something," he said.

The Crusaders went just 5 of 16 in the first quarter, but WACO had a worse go of it, managing just four shots from the field as HTC's 1-3-1 press made it tough for the Lady Warriors to get anything going in the half-court set.

The Lady Crusaders' 3-point specialist, Taylor Boeding, had an off night and didn't connect on her first long ball until about 1:30 left in the 3rd period. But junior Ashlynn Haas filled in the role and hit two in the first quarter as HTC opened up a 16-6 edge.

Holy Trinity would push the lead to 29-13 at the 3:51 mark of the second period when junior Avery Hopper pulled down a Boeding miss and scored sliding in from the left block.

WACO converted on just two buckets and a couple of free throws in the second and HTC was off to the races with a 41-15 halftime lead.

The Warriors' senior Claire Schmitz gave a spark in the third with a bucket at 43-19 and then followed with a 3-ball from the right side of the offense to cut the lead to 46-22, but that was all that was in the tank for WACO, as HTC opened a 53-24 3rd quarter lead on back-to-back buckets by Box to end the period.

Johnson was able to substitute heavily in the fourth quarter and emptied the bench with about three minutes left in the game as WACO managed just a bucket by Nadiyah Brown and then missed their final nine shots of the game.

Haas, who finished with 19 on the night, said things are working well for the Crusaders because everyone's getting more confident on the floor.

"I've worked on my shot some and I tweaked it a bit because it wasn't falling," she said. "I feel more confident with taking that shot now, so I'm shooting it when I'm open and my teammates are doing well getting me the ball when I'm open."

The Crusaders had seven players score in the game led by Box and Haas. Hopper finished with eight points, while Boeding had seven, junior Claire Pothitakis chipped in with four, senior Mya Lawlor added three, and senior Eryn Anderson scored one.

Johnson said the scoring is fairly balanced and he likes it that way.

"That's how I want to be. I don't want to have one girl averaging 20 a night and everybody else with five. That doesn't work. I want five girls averaging 13, that's what I'd really like," he said.

"But we're more comfortable right now. We've simplified some of this. It sounds crazy, but sometimes easier is better, so we did that and it seems to be working for them right now".

After Monday's road trip to 14-2 Van Buren, the Crusaders turn around and travel to 11-4 West Burlington on Tuesday.
Giving back has always been part of Smith’s plan year with the Rodeo,” he laughed. Other events brought back included the Chili Supper, which was originally held in the Elks parking lot.

Over the next decade Smith worked his way through the Operating Committee overseeing programs such as buttons and sales, program sales, advertising, entertainment, and working his way up to General Chairman in 1992 and 1993.

In 1989, during Carl Saunders’ term as General Chairman, the operating committee was restructured and Smith didn’t have a seat on the committee that year. Now the board has two members from the Fort Madison Chamber of Commerce, but they don’t share board members.

“Before then, the two boards had so many things in common it made sense to have a Chamber board member on the rodeo operating committee,” he said. As general chairman, Smith helped lead the transition from a Friday thru Sunday rodeo, to a Thursday-Saturday rodeo.

From 1994-95 he served in the transitional role of Past Chairman and then until about 2002 he served in several capacities in the Past Chairman’s group. In 2003 he started on the Tri-State Board, which is a traditional transition from the operating committee.

As part of the board, Smith said he got one of the most fun gigs available and that is the assistant to Rodeo MC Boyd Polhamus.

“I got to work with him on the non-PRCA stuff. Providing him with all the local information with queens’ names, local sponsors, and helping him with that side of the rodeo,” Smith said. “He’s just a great guy and has been the voice of the rodeo, and he just loves to talk.”

He said his time with the Rodeo has afforded him a chance to give back to Fort Madison. But Smith hasn’t just spent his volunteer time with the Tri-State Rodeo organization. He’s served with the Fort Madison Chamber, Jaycees, Fort Madison’s Southeast Iowa Regional Riverboat Commission board, the Fort Madison Economic Development Group, the Baxter Sports Complex board, and the Fort Madison Promoting Outdoor Recreational Trails (P.O.R.T.) operating committee.

“I just enjoy being involved in the community that’s given a lot to us,” he said. I feel really good when I can give back in some small way.”

He said the rodeo operating committee and board have always had the same goal of providing a great event and great entertainment at a price people can afford.

“We always focus on making sure we have a really good value in that ticket price. We want to make sure everyone has a chance to come out and enjoy the rodeo. Sure we’ve put in VIP seating and have put money into infrastructure improvements, but we always have that base ticket where everyone can come in and see a really great show.”

Entertainment is one area that Smith said is always a challenge, yet the Rodeo continues to bring in national acts.

“When I was in charge of entertainment, we had a budget of about $20,000 to $25,000 and that’s not even close to what they have to spend now. Entertainment is tough, yet this group continues to find ways to bring in some of the best acts in the country.”

He said board investments have kept the rodeo contemporary and garnering attention from the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association.

“It’s the top 60 prize money rodeos in the country qualify for the National Finals Rodeo and we’re still in that group. It’s important to stay there so we can continue to attract the top cowboys in the country. There are lots of places they can be and they still choose to come here.”

The CINCH Shootout has helped bring additional talent and attention to the Rodeo. Smith that addition on Wednesday night, which is still a separate rodeo event from the regular three-day Tri-State Rodeo, in the very near future could vault the TSR into the top half of purse money in the country and position the Rodeo for even greater things.

Smith said he’s always stuck with volunteer work and never entered the political arena, although he’s been asked on numerous occasions.

“There was talk about me running for Lee County Supervisors or city council or even state office back when Rich Taylor won, but I think politics is a dirty word. I don’t want to please some, I try and please everyone,” he said.

He said he’s trying to pull back from some of the volunteer efforts he’s engaged in, but it still having a hard time not serving.

“I just don’t know how to say ‘no’, yet,” he laughed. “But I’m learning.”

I just enjoy being involved in the community that’s given a lot to us. I feel really good when I can give back in some small way.”
