FORT MADISON – After three closed sessions over the past five weeks, including an hour-long session Monday night, the Fort Madison school board has taken no action on Superintendent Dr. Erin Slater’s contract.

Board President Dr. Tim Wondra said after the meeting their will be no action taken on the contract, but the contract was not extended beyond the expiration of the contract on June 30, 2021.

Wondra said the review was actually an annual scheduled review that got delayed due to personnel changes on the board. He said with the new board members coming on in the special election, the regular evaluation kind of got pushed back.

“It was my fault it got pushed back. We had it

Baseball fields, sand volleyball pit gets facelift

FORT MADISON – Five years into it’s existence, the Baxter Sports Complex is in the midst of a facelift so to speak. Specialists from North Liberty are in town removing the current infield mix from all three baseball fields in the complex and replacing them with a different surface material that will allow for quicker re-suspension of games after it rains.

The board made the decision in September last year to replace the surfaces despite the material having been in place for less than five years.

Baxter Sports Complex Director Jeff Woodside said the fields just weren’t handling water well and that many events were being canceled all together because of the playing conditions, rather than being delayed.

“The material itself didn’t drain, and the way it was graded was more for construction than for a playing field,” Woodside said. “We’ve probably had eight rain outs this year, but only a couple of those would have been rainouts regardless. The others we probably would have been able to resume play with this new surface.”

He said MAB Turf of North Liberty has already pulled over 120 tons of material from the infield. The Baxter Sports Complex will now have four feet of sod that will be added to shorten the infield. The surface can handle up to 1” of rain in one hour and will help reduce rainouts at the complex.

Research shows field 3 at Baxter Sports Complex with its new Shakopee lime–stone surface. The gray areas inside the grass is an additional four feet of sod that will be added to shorten the infield. The surface can handle up to 1” of rain in one hour and will help reduce rainouts at the complex.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Board issues letter of support for Superintendent

The Fort Madison Community School District takes its responsibility to ensure that all students have the opportunity to receive an engaging, integrated, rigorous educational experience very seriously. We, as a Board of Directors and a Superintendent, frequently refer to the District’s beliefs and vision statement to remind us of the route we must continue to pursue to meet the educational needs of all FMCSD students. These beliefs and this vision statement are read aloud at every Board meeting, and can be found on the District’s website at https://www.fmcsd.org/school-board/.

One of the most critical parts of providing an outstanding educational experience for all students is having employees who are committed to the District’s beliefs and vision statement. The District has a strong, diverse, dedicated group of employees. The District’s teachers, coaches, associates, custodians, maintenance employees, secretaries, bus drivers, bus monitors, support staff, food service employees, administrators, and Superintendent are all working toward the District’s shared goals and objectives.

As with any organization, there are times when individuals – including students, parents, employees, or community members – raise concerns regarding the District’s employees. In these scenarios, people often have differing views and opinions regarding what occurred and what should happen next. Whatever the views held by these individuals, ultimately it is up to the employee’s supervisor to appropriately investigate, discuss, and take any appropriate remedial action to address the concerns that are raised. This process allows all employees a fair opportunity to understand and respond to the concerns and ensures that concerns are being appropriately handled.

Based upon recent media coverage, it appears this is what has occurred recently at FMCSD - different people have different views of what has occurred and what should occur related to the Superintendent’s conduct. Upon learning of possible concerns, the Board followed the process the District utilizes for all employees and looked into and addressed the concerns.

City Council to vote on depot contract

Approval could set the stage for a September bid-letting by IDOT

BY CHUCK VANDENBERG

FORT MADISON - City officials will consider a $100,000 engineering contract from Klingner & Associates on Tuesday that should clear the way for a bid letting on the new passenger rail platform at the Historic Santa Fe Depot.

The agreement is one of the final steps in securing a bid letting date for the construction of the platform, a project which has been in the works for close to two decades.

City Manager David Varley said the projected bid letting is expected for this fall on Sept. 17, with the city awarding a construction contract in October and work starting at some point that fall or in the spring.

The project is expected to be completed in August of 2020 with a final review, to be completed in August, by the Iowa Department of Transportation before December of next year.

The project has been full of delays, reconfigurations and emotion since it was first suggested under former Mayor John Wright. The project picked up steam under Mayor Steve Ireland, who died before the project could see fruition.

Current Mayor Brad Randolph, who had told Ireland he would keep the project alive, almost gave in to the project being abandoned last winter when funding seemed to be about $400,000 short. With the city finding itself in a revenue crisis, several city councilman suggested the city move on without the project.

Randolph and City Councilman Chris Greenwald then started making calls to state and federal lawmakers to try and come up with the additional funds and were successful in securing an additional $400,000 from the Iowa Department of Transportation's Transportation Commission, saving the project.

All the while, the city had to help coordinate three different agreements to make the project a reality. Included in the agreements is a platform sublease agreement with Amtrak. This agreement provides for the city constructing the platform and then giving ownership to Burlington Northern Santa Fe railroad. Amtrak would then lease the platform from BNSF and then sublease it to the city to give the city responsibility for any maintenance and repair. Under the agreement the city would also be responsible for all utilities and insurance coverage.

Amtrak is contributing $150,000 to the construction of the platform, and picking up $21,000 in custodial fees annually for 10 years.

The second agreement is between the city and Amtrak where the city agrees to construct depot improvements, which have already been done, and construct a platform as well as installing Amtrak approved signage and a wheelchair enclosure.

The third agreement provides for the city leasing Amtrak 813 square feet of exclusive space in the station for operations including a "common area" to be used by passengers. It would be a 20-year lease with two 10-year extensions available. Rent on the space will be $400 monthly from Amtrak.

The city will still be responsible for maintaining the platform.
field 3 and has put down the new lime material and reset that field. He said he wanted to do one field at a time so two would still be available to use in the meantime.

The company is pulling the heavier material in favor of Shakopee limestone, a highly absorbent material that can absorb up to 1” of rain in less than an hour. The material comes from Shakopee, Minn.

“This has taken longer than usual. Typically we can renovate one field in a couple of days by just putting on new materials. But we got rid of their lip and a got rid of a few things, and now we’re working on irrigation,” said MBA’s Bev Seelman.

The company is heavily experienced and is one of the University of Iowa’s go to companies when it comes to rehabbing and resurfacing fields.

We contracted with them last September knowing it wouldn’t happen until this spring. It should have been completed in April, but the rain pushed their schedule back as they were finishing up a couple other projects.

When I came in October of 2017, it was one of those things we knew needed to be done, but was an issue of how we were going to pay for it and finding the right person to do the work. He said the board did a couple of site visits, and also went to Linn-Mar High School and talked to groundkeepers about the different materials the board was considering.

“He said this, hands-down, is the best material for what we were wanting to do with it, so that’s what we went with,” Woodside said. Planned work would have field 2, or the southwest field done next followed by field 1 in the southeast corner of the complex. Woodside said the total bill for the improvements will be in the six-figure range, but he said grants from the Southeast Iowa Regional Riverboat Commission, helped offset a lot of the costs. The complex also just finished up a $35,000 upgrade to the sand volleyball courts with new sand and landscaping. New rock landscaping and sod were put down just south of the patio and 220 tons of new sand was brought in.

Woodside said the improvements have helped fill up the adult volleyball schedule.

“We’ve got volleyball three nights a week and it’s pretty full out here,” he said.

He said these projects will probably be the final projects done outside of in-house maintenance this year.

The complex has an all night volleyball tournament scheduled for July 26 and an all-night softball tournament coming up in August. Woodside said summer leagues are in full swing and fall leagues will be forming at the beginning of September.

State looking for Iowa Honor Jobs nominees

DES MOINES — Gov. Kim Reynolds is encouraging Iowans to make nominations for the sixth annual Iowa Job Honor Awards. The Iowa Job Honor Awards is accepting nominations for its sixth annual event set for October 10 in Des Moines.

The awards celebrate Iowans who overcome barriers to employment and the employers who hire them. Previous honorees have overcome disabilities, criminal convictions, immigration challenges and ageism in their struggle for employment. Two previous honorees, Steven Shewry and Michael Willoughby, were recognized by Governor Reynolds in her 2019 Condition of the State address. The two completed apprenticeship training while in prison, obtained employment immediately upon release, and are now recognized as outstanding workers by their Iowa employers.

Top individual honorees in the October 10 ceremony will receive cash awards, and winners in both the individual and employer categories will receive engraved crystal awards. VIP tickets will be produced for each top honoree.

The awards are presented as part of the Iowa SHRM (Society for Human Resource Management) annual state conference.

Nominations are due July 31 and can be submitted at www.JobHonor.org. Previous honoree videos can also be viewed at the organization’s website.

Loebsack-backed appropriations bill passed in House

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Today, Congressman Dave Loebsack released the following statement on the House passage of the FY2020 National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA), which included provisions he authored.

Loebsack, a former member of the House Armed Services Committee, helped incorporate several provisions in this year’s legislation that will help create jobs here at home, increase defense research and strengthen the Rock Island Arsenal. The Senate will now consider its version of the bill and a joint House-Senate Conference Committee will work to reconcile the differences between the two bills.

Loebsack worked to include a provision to extend Temporary Installation Realignment Authority for leasing excess space at Army arsenals, depots, and plants through September 30, 2025. This will allow the Rock Island Arsenal to continue leveraging private investment through long-term facility use contracts, property management contracts, leases or other such agreements. It would also require the Secretary of Defense to report to Congress on the information technology, logistics, and security requirements necessary to create an internal listing service of Army assets available for lease. Loebsack also authored language included in the overall bill to boost STEM jobs and address the STEM jobs gap within the Department of Defense (DoD).

Additionally, Loebsack worked with the Armed Services Committee to include language in the bill report that will require the Secretary of Defense to report on the status of legislation included in last year’s DoD bill that directs DoD to work with private industry and academia to accelerate development of human factors modeling and simulation technologies to support soldier training and performance. This will help strengthen cooperation between the DoD and existing human factors modeling and simulation research projects, including the University of Iowa’s Virtual Soldier Research program, further enhancing academic research and development and the University.

“Ensuring the men and women in our military have the tools and resources they need to operate in a modern, competitive enviornment, and emerge from today’s warfighting with the best chance to succeed, is our responsibility. I am also pleased that we have taken steps to deliver more workload to the Rock Island Arsenal, which helps both the Arsenal and Quad Cities create jobs and help their economy remain strong.”

Additionally, Loebsack pushed to include many provisions important to our troops and their families, including:

• Provides for a 3.1 percent pay increase for the troops

• Repeals the “widow’s tax” which requires military surviving spouses to forfeit all or part of their military Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) annuity if they become eligible for Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC) payments when their spouse dies.

• Creates greater protections for military families by establishing a tenant’s bill of rights for residents of privatized military housing, requiring DoD to identify and measure health and safety hazards in housing, and providing additional funding to improve over-sight and management of military family housing.

• Prohibits an additional round of BRAC.

Buyout would have been heavy burden on district planned to do it, but then it got expanded with all this and it went from one to possibly two sessions to these extended sessions," Wondra said.

He said no action on the contract was put on the agenda because no action was required.

"The only reason to have a contract on the agenda would be if we were either going to change it or increase pay and since we're not doing either of those, there wasn't anything to act on," he said.

He said to buy out Slater's contract would have been too heavy a burden on the district.

"Part of our job is to be financially responsible. For the taxpayers' money if you have someone that has a multi-year contract to get out of, they have no incentive without getting a whole chunk of money," Wondra said.

"To be financially responsible we can't buy out contracts. When you're looking at a $180,000 contract, to buy that out and to pay somebody else at the same time, that's significant to the district."

The regular review was extended due to allegations that Slater had demanded additional playing time for her son at a meeting with Fort Madison Head Basketball Coach Ryan Wilson at her office.

Wilson went public with the allegations last month, two days after Slater's husband Scott confronted him at a basketball camp in Quincy. The confrontation was caught on tape and was posted locally on social media.

Slater also communicated with the board via email that she was concerned with shared programs, specifically the baseball program, hurting Fort Madison High School athletes who were losing playing time to Holy Trinity Catholic players. Slater scheduled a meeting with Wondra and Fort Madison Athletic Director Jeremy Swink to discuss the issue, but that meeting was canceled and never rescheduled.

Holy Trinity Catholic had five players on a squad of 30 for this summer's Bloodhound baseball team.

On June 16, the board received a letter that was also sent to area news outlets from a Slater personal email account indicating the superintendent would not be signing an extension to her contract. The emailed letter was sent from the initials S.S.

directly with the Superintendent. The matter has been appropriately handled by the Board. Iowa law requires that the District keep any personnel information regarding a District employee confidential. Therefore, the District cannot make any statements or provide any information related to any employee personnel matter, including this matter involving the Superintendent.

The Board affirmatively states that it supports Dr. Slater and her leadership of the District's educational program and of all FMCSD students and employees. There has been great progress while Dr. Slater has served as Superintendent, and we look forward to continued progress that will bring more positive experiences for FMCSD students and employees.

We are all one community pursuing the same goal to provide an educational experience that ensures all students learn the skills necessary for success.
