12-plus course lifts student lifeskills

Program also qualifies for elective credits

BY CHUCK VANDENBERG
PCC EDITOR

LEE COUNTY – A program underway in Lee County is giving students an inside look at the body of work that awaits them after graduation.

Going on its fourth year, the 12-plus program was created by the Lee County Economic Development Group as a springboard for area high school students to help give them insight into lifeskills needed entering the workforce.

Students at Keokuk, Central Lee, and Fort Madison High School can enroll in the class as part of their first semester registrations.

LCEDGE Communication and Marketing Specialist, Dana Millard, said the curriculum is set by the economic development group with the input from area employers and continues to grow year by year.

“I’m really excited about this upcoming class,” she said Friday. “We’ve had industry leaders asking about how they can become more involved with the class, and we’re happy to get the word about what is going on.

Students and parents who are interested in more information about the class should contact their school’s counselor or Millard herself at dmillard@leecountyedg.com. Most students are registering for classes this upcoming week.

“The class is run by LCEDG so we have the class run from Aug. 26 to Christmas break in December. The students get high school credit as an elective for the graduation. Many of the schools give them two credits due to the work involved in it,” Millard said.

The class, over the past three years, has ranged in size from 20 to 25 students, and is an employability class for students designed by local industry and focuses on what students need to know to get a high quality career.

Class time is dedicated to a variety of skills such as presentation skills, money management, basic workplace safety, resume building and interviewing skills.

Students also take part in tours of local employer

Western Illinois Threshers going on this weekend

BY ETHAN LILLARD
PCC STAFF

HAMILTON - Getting stuck behind a tractor is a regular occurrence around the farming areas in the tri-states. This week and possibly over the weekend, some may find themselves stuck behind not just one tractor, but an entire fleet of tractors, as people from around the tri-state area and beyond bring their classic tractors to Hamilton, Illinois for this year’s 52nd annual Western Illinois Threshers.

Frustration? Not sure what Threshers is all about, tractors is just the beginning. When you pull up to the Thresher grounds, you will see antique tractors, farm animals, antique farm equipment, a grandstand for fans, food vendor trucks and the list goes on.

“Western Illinois Threshers is kind of like a fair,” Joy Swearingen, who has been involved with Threshers since the late 70s, said. “But it’s all focused on farming and life in the past.”

Along with tractor pulls, there are also replica villages with blacksmiths, a sawmill, log cabins, a school house, churches, a post office and much more to demonstrate what a typical community may look like dating back to the late 1800s and early 1900s. While taking a walk through the community, spectators can interact with and will hear from those volunteers who are playing the role of community commoner during the late 1800-early 1900s era.

“You see everything and how it was done around 100 years ago,” Swearingen said. "Some of it older than that and some of it newer than that."

It’s just a record of what farming has been like over the past.”

Trains will be provided for transportation and kids entertainment on certain parts of the grounds, as flee markets, events and numerous food options will be enjoyed throughout the course of the day.

For a complete list of all activities and events that will take place at this year’s Threshers, please visit: www.westernillinois-threshers.org. The fee to get in is a $5 button that you are required to purchase upon entre, the rest of the event is cost free.

HISTORY

The event is actually named after an old piece of farm equipment invented in 1786 named the Thresher.

“One person would have a threshing machine and he would drive around to all the different farms and the neighbors would all collect at each person’s farm,” Swearingen explained. “They would have to cut the wheat, stalk and all, and have it tied into the bundles, and they would throw those bundles into the threshing machine.

Threshing is separating the grain from the straw if anyone wonders what threshing is all about, that’s it.”

The event began 52 years ago after a group of local farmers decided they had enough people and machinery to host an event of their own after having gone to similar events in other communities. The first Thresher events were held on Fred Buckert’s farm and then rotated to other people’s grounds as the years progressed.

“They rotated around to varies farms and over the ten years it grew and became a lot to set up from scratch,” Swearingen said. “The crowds were getting so large that it was hard to manage on someone’s farm. They began to look for land to buy and that’s when they bought the first 40 acres and started building here on the Western Illinois Threshers grounds.”

Swearingen is like many from around the Hancock County community and grew up around the event for much of her life and raised her children going to the event over the years as well. As her roots grew deeper with the community event, so did her involvement.

Swearingen takes care of much of the promotions for the event, public relations, advertising, press releases, radio shows and much more. She also manages the food on the grounds for dinner in the evenings and more, with a ribeye dinner to take place Friday nights and a pork chop dinner to follow Saturday.

While the food alone is always a good reason to come back year in and year out, Swearingen says the experience many like herself return every year for the celebration is because of the relationships built that may now have span over multiple generations of family, much like it was in the threshing days.

“It’s a lot of work, but it’s the people that are involved here,” Swearingen said is the reason she keeps coming back for more every year. “You see people maybe once a year, just working together with folks and seeing families come and enjoy the show and realizing they are learning. It provides a real fun place for the whole family to come.

“We have a number of children's events too. My kids grew up coming here and it's just kind of a nostalgic thing. Sometimes I wonder why I keep doing it, but it's a good thing for the community; it pulls a lot of people into Hancock County and I think it's worth the effort.”

With the event getting bigger and bigger each year, more and more volunteers will be required to help staff the event. This year you will see West Hancock Titan students helping to raise money for their after prom and will also see numerous organizations there to help serve dinners, tear down and much more.

“Just a chance of the people that make things happen,” Swearingen said. “We couldn't do it without all the volunteers in the county.”

For Threshers it has all come full circles from attending the event with her parents to now going and seeing grandchildren running around, carrying on the generational tradition.

When she first came to Threshers there was a saw mill on the far end of the property. She wondered why in the world part of the thresher facility would be so far dislocated from the rest of the events and buildings, but now knows it was part of a bigger plan that she is now a part of.

“When we first started coming, the saw mill was at the way far end and there was only one or two buildings here close to where the food stand is and the grandstand,” Swearingen said. “I could not understand why they built that sawmill way down there where nobody is. Now there is several roads that fill in that space, it’s all full between here and the sawmill. Somebody has a vision and a plan … It’s just grown and grown.”

Aikey takes Deery Bros 40-lap feature Friday

BY BRIAN NEAL
PEPSI LEE COUNTY SPEEDWAY

DONNELSON - For the first time since 2010 the Deery Brothers Summer Series for IMCA Late Models returned to the Pepsi Lee County Speedway in Donnellson, Iowa on Friday. With Floyd’s EZ Way Waste Systems, Shottenkirk Parts Express, and Wilson Brothers BBQ & Catering helping to bring the action. When the checkers flew, Jeff Aikey found himself in victory lane for the 70th time in series history.

The 18 lap Roberts Tire Center IMCA SportMod feature took to the track first. And when Derek Goble was a scratch and Jim Powell elected to go to the rear, this moved Jim Walker and Steven Berry to the front row. Walker would take advantage of the move to the front row by grabbing the lead on lap 1 over Berry and Sean Wyatt, who started 7th. Just after lap 1 was scored complete the first yellow appeared, as debris down the front stretch brought out the yellow. On the restart Ron Kibbe slowed to a stop in turn 3 to bring the yellow light back on.

The following restart saw Wyatt shoot under Walker to take over the top spot, with Daniel Fellows, who started 8th, following him into the runner up spot. Fellows tried to keep up with Wyatt’s pace over the next 3 laps, with a right front flat to bring out the yellow. On the restart Wyatt moved back out front, with Brandon Dale and Fellows battling for the second spot. Wyatt worked to hold off Dale and Fellows over the next 5 laps, when a caution came out to slow the battle up front. Joe Roller spun in turn 2 to bring out the yellow. Wyatt once again grabbed the lead on the restart, with Fellows and Dale continuing their battle for second.

The final caution of the race appeared on lap 12, when contact sent Dale spinning in turn 2 to bring out the yellow. Once again Wyatt jumped out front on the restart, with Tanner Kinglee, who started 9th, and Dale following. Wyatt then led the final laps to score his first win of the season at the track. Kinglee was 2nd, Dale was 3rd, Walker was 4th, with Berry rounding out the top 5.

Up next was the 18 lap Donnellson Tire & Service IMCA Stock Car feature, with Kyle Boyd and Brandon Savage leading the field to green. It was third place starter Jerry Simonsen, who started 11th, that would edge him out at the green-to-checkered, Bill Fellows, who started 10th, would try to work under the checkers, but Eckrich was able to hold the lead on the line over the next 4 laps. On lap 37 Eckrich drifted high on out turn 4, which allowed Aikey to slip past him for the top spot. Aikey then held on for the final 3 laps to score his 70th series victory. Eckrich was 2nd, Emerson was 3rd, Tommy Elston started 11th and finished 4th, with Zrostlik coming home 5th.

Next up was the 15 lap Discount Tire & Service IMCA Sport Compact feature, with TJ Weis and Ricky Miller Jr. making up the front row. But it was seventh place starter Trent Orwig who quickly shot to the front to lead lap 1 over David Prim and Josh Barnes, who started 6th. Orwig then held the top spot until lap 5, when Barnes slipped past him for the lead. While Barnes set the pace out front, Orwig, Brandon Taft and Brandon Reu battled for the runner up spot. The battle for second would come to an end on lap 13, Taft slowed in turn 2 to bring out the yellow. On the restart Barnes jumped back out front, and then held on to claim his fifth win of the season at the Pepsi Lee County Speedway.

The following restart saw Eckrich move back out front, with Jeff Aikey and Zrostlik close behind. Again the fast pace Eckrich was setting would put him into lapped traffic on lap 24. This time the lapped traffic would allow Aikey to close in on Eckrich’s back bumper on lap 30. Then on lap 32 Aikey would try to work under Eckrich coming off the corners, but Eckrich was again able to hold the lead on the line over the next 4 laps. On lap 37 Eckrich drifted high on out turn 4, which allowed Aikey to slip past him for the top spot. Aikey then held on for the final 3 laps to score his 70th series victory. Eckrich was 2nd, Emerson was 3rd, Tommy Elston started 11th and finished 4th, with Zrostlik coming home 5th.

United Way holds Back-to-School festival

Submitted article

KEOKUK – It’s that time once again, where the community unites to help students and families with their back to school needs. The 15th Annual Back to School Festival will be held on Saturday, August 10 from Noon to 3PM at Trinity United Methodist Church. Event sponsors include: Trinity United Methodist Church, United Way of the Great River Region, Salvation Army, Hy-Vee, McDonald’s of Keokuk, Roquette America, Allied Blending, Climax Molybdenum, New Testament Church, Two Rivers Bank & Trust and Glasscock/de Gala Family.

The event is free and open to the public regardless of income or school district. Backpacks with selected school supplies will be distributed for students pre-kindergarten through high school on a first come first serve basis. Students and families will have the opportunity to visit with area agencies and organizations as well as receive a free basic haircut, enjoy games, face painting, food, ice cream floats and tour of local emergency vehicles.

“Area churches, organizations, and businesses have donated money, school supplies and volunteer time in order to make this a successful event” says Karen Steffen, Director at United Way of the Great River Region. “It’s great to see the community come together to help families get ready for the start of the school year”. In addition, Trinity United Methodist Church and United Way of the Great River Region would like to thank all of the wonderful volunteers who help pack backpacks with school supplies.

Want to get involved? Sponsor a backpack for $20 each and/or volunteer your time on the day of the event. Contact Sue at United Way at 319-524-4504 for more information.
